

The Injury/Illness Management Audit

“Ferretting Out Stubborn Systemic Problems to Improve Product Outcomes”

Peter P. Greaney, MD

WorkCare, Inc.

June 2, 2009, 2:00pm – 3:00pm

AIHce 2009, Toronto, Canada

Abstract

This presentation describes how conducting an assessment of the injury/illness management program can help control risks and enhance employee presenteeism.

Using a method developed by a certified industrial hygienist and an occupational physician, this process uses specific metrics to rate injury/illness management categories.

Conducting the analysis can help identify program strengths and vulnerabilities which can be used to promote the creation and execution of Corrective Actions and Preventive Actions to create a program that is "firing on all cylinders."

Participants Will Learn:

- How to critique injury/illness management processes to close safety process gaps.
- How to identify standard employee misunderstandings about common injury management expectations and dispel these myths to improve employee productivity.
- How to identify weak links in the medical provider management system.

Peter P. Greaney, M.D.

Peter P. Greaney, M.D. is the company president of WorkCare. He is board-certified in occupational medicine and family practice and is a specialist in toxicology. He has been formally trained in the specialty of occupational and environmental medicine at the Southern Occupational Health Center at the University of California, Irvine, where he is currently a faculty member.

Dr. Greaney has designed occupational medicine programs for a variety of companies and serves as a corporate medical director consultant to numerous national companies, ranging from biotechnology, environmental engineering, and pharmaceuticals to specialty chemical and utility companies.

Dr. Greaney has been a featured speaker at a number of NIOSH symposiums, including Steps to a Healthier US Workforce and Best Practices in Workplace Surveillance. He is also the former Speaker of the House of Delegates for the American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine, an international medical society of more than 6,000 occupational and environmental physicians.

Contact Information

Peter Greaney, M.D.

300 S. Harbor Blvd, Ste 600

Anaheim, CA 92805

(800) 455-6155

Website: www.workcare.com

Email: info@workcare.com